by SAs and ROBERT C. BYRNES at her residence from 6:$5 p.m. to 7:20 p.m. this date. stated that BALDWIN arrived in Washington, D. C., on Monday, July 16, and remained until the evening of Thursday, 7-19-62. The first information she had regarding his visit was on the Thursday proceeding his arrival; at which time, (Phonetic), called from New York requesting that she make appointments with nine individuals in Washington, D. C. She was to advise these b6 individuals that the purpose of BALDWIN's contacts was with b7C regard to current defense matters. BALDWIN stayed at the Jefferson Hotel, Washington, D. C., where he normally stays, during his current visit. She believed BALDWIN arrived in Washington sometime around Noon on 7-16-62. No appointments for him on that date were known to She attempted either prior to the arrival of BALDWIN or following his arrival to arrange appointments with the following individuals: Mr. JOHN A. MC CONE, Director, CIA; Mr. ROBERT S. MC NAMARA. Secretary of Defense; Mr. (FNU) Anderson, Navy; and Mr. ROSWELL L. GILPATRIC, Deputy Secretary of Defense. She felt that possibly

"The New York Times," 2700 Wisconsin Avenue, N. W., interviewed

an appointment was made with General L. L. LEMNITZER, Chairman, Joint Chiefs of Staff could not recall the identities of other individuals with whom she made appointments for BALDWIN. She recalled, however, that she had contacted the following persons in order to set up appointments: Lieutenant (Phonetic), Navy; Commander Navy; Lieutenant Colonel Army, or someone in office; Colonel GROGAN, CIA; office of ARTHUR SYLVESTER, Assistant Secretary of Defense, for the appointment with Mr. MC NAMARA.
Through past experience, stated that with the exception of CIA, generally all appointments for BALDWIN are made with individuals at the Pentagon. She stated that an appointment at the State Department would be an exception and could recall only one instance when an attempt was made for an appointment which was not during the most recent BALDWIN visit. This attempt was unsuccessful since the person, name unrecalled, was out of the country.
stated that BALDWIN had "a couple" of luncheon dates while visiting WDC; however, she did not know with whom he met nor the dates. She believed these engagements were set up by from New York.
She stated BALDWIN deals mainly with persons of Secretary stature but felt that he must have "back door" contacts. She stated his visits to WDC were at three- or four-month intervals and the pattern of appointments is the same for each visit. She has never made appointments for BALDWIN with press information officers at any Government agency. She stated that she had not seen the article in question at the time of publication but, from a cursory perusal, felt that he possibly could have gotten the data from a "back door" contact. She stated no one else in WDC, to her knowledge, makes appointments for BALDWIN other than herself. She pointed out that she did not have personal contact with BALDWIN on his most recent visit, however, she did converse with him several times by telephone.
was requested to furnish the identities of any contacts BALDWIN has in WDC below the Secretary and general officer level. She stated that she knew of none. When furnishing from memorary the above appointments made by her, she related that she kept in her office an exact list of appointments made for BALDWIN on each visit. She stated she are make this list available to the FBI. Upon further reflection, she felt that she should advise her superiors that she had been interviewed and that she had offered to make the material available. was advised that there would be no objection to this. She observed that JACK RAYMOND has the Pentagon beat for "The New York Times" but that ordinarily he handles matters of a different nature than those handled by BALDWIN.

WFO will attempt to fully identify persons mentioned during interview.
WF 1384-S* advised on 7-30-62, that at 7:25 p.m. contacted WALLACE CARROLL of "The New York Times," WDC. She advised she had just had a visit from two FBI men and it was very confidential. She informed CARROLL that she explained to the FBI men she was going to tell her boss in the movements of HANSON BALDWIN, particularly the last time he was in WDC. She stated that "apparently the Attorney General took exception to one of his columns" and the FBI is trying to find out who gave BALDWIN the information for his column. She believed the article was dated 7-26-62, and was about

She stated she told the FBI about some of BALDWIN's appointments made by her which were all with Secretaries "and that sort of thing." According to ______ the FBI is not interested in Secretaries but "what they want is the indians and not the chiefs." She related that the FBI desired she furnish them a list of appointments made by her for BALDWIN during his last visit and she stated she told the FBI she was going to call CARROLL about this.

explained the Agents were interested

CARROLL stated that he was glad she informed him of the above and stated, "Let's sit on it tomorrow until I can go into it further and I might call BOBBIE KENNEDY."

stated she would do nothing until she saw CARROLL on 7-31-62.

At this point, CARROLL stated, "Don't give them any more."

assured him she would not and stated she had the FBI Agents' names and number and had told the FBI men she would call them 7-31-62, and tell them whether she would give them further information or not. hoped she had done nothing wrong and was assured by CARROLL that she had not.

CARROLL stated that generally newspaper practicisto tell them nothing concerning people who furnish information to newspapermen reiterated that the names she has are the "top Secretaries of the Services, Mr. MC NAMARA, etc." When CARROLL asked when she had be	only etc.,
interviewed, stated, "They have just left."

ASAC Schmit, NYO, called at 7:25 PM, 7-30-62, to advise that Agents had called at Baldwin's residence at 6:58 PM, 7-30.

Baldwin personally answered the door and when the Agents introduced themselves and said they wanted to talk to him, he said he was eating his dinner and couldn't talk to them, that he didn't appreciate this type of approach, that they could have had the courtesy to call for an appointment and that if they wanted to talk to him they could see him at his office at 10:30 AM tomorrow (7-31). The Agents tried to explain to Baldwin that they only wanted to talk to him a short time, but he interrupted and said they could see him in his office at 10:30 and thereafter closed the door. The Agents never got to advise him of the purpose of their visit.

New York's teletype reporting the contact with Baldwin did not mention Baldwin not liking this type of approach and the fact that they could have had the courtesy to call for an appointment and I contacted ASAC Schmit on the morning of 7-31 in this regard. He said that the teletype had summarized the results of the contact and that Baldwin's statements had been as he had indicated to me on the night of July 30th.

INFORMATIVE NOTE

Date July 30, 1962

With regard to leak case involving subject, one of most significant items in the 7/26/62 article was the relationship between missiles and 'concrete box. Attached reveals was queried re this item by researcher for Baldwin. While significant, it still does not tie down where Baldwin or the researcher got the original data. Consideration will be given to interviewing the researcher, at proper stage in this investigation.

Attorney General being advised.

persons of the "Secretary" level, but she did feel that he must have "backdoor" contacts. The advised that she has never made appointments for Paldwin with any press information officers at any United States Government agency and that to her knowledge no one else in Washington makes appointments for Baldwin other than herself.

stated she knew of no contacts Baldwin has had in Washington below the Secretary and General level and that she was furnishing from memory the appointments of Baldwin's mentioned above. She related that she kept in her office the exact list of appointments made for Baldwin on each visit and that she would make this list available to the FBI. The also advised that she intended to inform her superiors that she had been interviewed and that she had offered to make the material available.

On July 30, 1962, at 6:58 p.m., we attempted to interview Baldwin at his residence in Chappaqua, New York. Immediately after the FBI Agents identified themselves and prior to their having the opportunity to state the purpose of the interview, Baldwin stated that he could not talk to them at that time since he had just arrived home and was preparing to eat his dinner. Baldwin stated that he would have preferred to have had the Agents nalve an appointment with him at his office and he pointed out that if the Agents wanted to interview him they could see him at his office at 10:30 a.m., July 31. When the Agents attempted to explain that they wanted to talk to him for only a few minutes and would gladly wait until he finished his dinner, Paldwin refused to continue the discussion. In view of his resentment and arrogance, we think it best not to follow up and attempt to interview him, particularly as we anticipate his office will be "bugged." If he calls our New York Office, we will advise him we offered the courtesy of an interview and if he desires to be interviewed, we suggest he come to our New York Office.

Space Council, did not attend NSC session of 7/9/62, nor has he read NIE 11-8-62 or related papers. While on staff of Senator STUART SYMINGTON, Missouri, recalls having met BALDWIN, but has not been in contact with BALDWIN during past five years.

Major General CHESTER V. CLIFTON, Military Aide to the President, advised did not attend NSC meeting of 7/9/62. Has only read "summary" version of NIE 11-8-62 and received no briefings on that subject matter. Has known BALDWIN over period of years, but has not seen or talked to him in over year. Said from his recollection of BALDWIN's method of operation, about ninety-five per cent of BALDWIN's contacts were "senior officials in the Government" and it was "beneath BALDWIN's dignity" to see any lesser officials. Acquainted with JAMES RESTON and ARTHUR KROCK, "New York Times", but has not spoken with them in several months. Also acquainted with E. W.
KENWORTHY, "New York Times", and recalled saw KENWORTHY in Hyannis, Massachusetts, week end of 7/7-8/62. Said has never discussed subject matter of NIE 11-8-62 with any unauthorized person.

HANSON W. BALDWIN 39 Morton Place Chappaqua, New York

On July 30, 1962, at 6:58 PM, HANSON W. BALDWIN was approached at his home for the purpose of interviewing him in connection with an article containing this byline which appeared in the "New York Times" of July 26, 1962. Mr. BALDWIN came to the door and when the Agents identified themselves, he told them that he had just arrived home, was about to have his dinner and could not receive them at that time.

He was asked if the Agents could interview him following his dinner. BALDWIN said no and told the Agents that he resented "this kind of approach"; was at his office all day and thought they should have the courtesy to have made an appointment with him. He declined to be interviewed at that time but suggested that he would be available at, his home on the following day at 10:30 AM.

things "as in the August project and then they went clear and printed it. I resent this kind of pressure." Reston connected at this point, "I resent that these guys had enough guts to come knock on your door, but west is really sneeky is calling up a poor. . ." Baldwin interrupted at this point to say be hoped teston had anologized to her (apparently _______ for him, and then said, "She simply told then that I say everybody, didn't she?" Reston said that was correct.

Reston connected, "When they begin to do this thing in Mashington, it becomes a question of whether we are going to report the news or not." Daldwin pointed out, "When I reported that Memedy ordered the FBI into the Pentagon before the Derlin crisis. Memedy became angry, and then there was a story wrote in 'Newsweek' about various solutions for the Derlin crisis and Memedy blev his top. They actually went to and did some of these crumy intimidating tactics." In this instance Baldwin probably was referring to our investigation conducted in 1961 in the matter entitled "Unknown Subject; Leak of Classified Information Appearing in the July 3, 1961, 'Newsweek' Magazine Article Captioned 'Pentagon Plan.'" You have been furnished the results of our investigation in that matter.

Reston told Baldwin, "All it takes to deal with Lengthy who essentially is a politician and not a cop is for us to print the news. This is more Camaging to him them the information be would gain by talking to everybedy you saw." Reston also compensed, "If we printed a story of what's going on down here, I don't propose to take it up as a policy matter. I propose, if you agree, after we know what more is back of all this, merely to file a story, then if they want to take the responsibility of killing it, we'll know where we are."

You will be furnished additional developments in this matter.

With respect to the identity of individuals described above, it is noted that the teletype of the New York Office dated 7/31/62, contained information regarding a contact between J. B. "SCOTTY" RESTON of "The New York Times", Washington, D. C., and BALDWIN in New York City. During this contact, BALDWIN commented he had "always been most discreet about the military in protecting sources." In view of this comment, WFO is directing its investigation at this time primarily toward interview with potential military sources.

PENTAGON EDICT UPSETS MILITARY

Officers Fear Curb on Role in Weapons Evaluation

By HANSON W. BALDWIN

A projected change in the organization, relationships and functions of the Weapons Systems Evaluation Group in the Pentagon has aroused the strong opposition of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and other military leaders.

A directive issued by the Office of the Secretary of Defense and scheduled to go into effect next Wednesday would, in the opinion of these military leaders, change the whole concept of the group.

Unless the wording of the directive is changed, these leaders say, the strategic and weapons studies conducted for the group will be virtually independent; they will no longer be responsive to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and the influence and judgment of professional military officers in the Weapons Systems Evaluation Group will be virtually eliminated.

The Weapons Systems Evaluation Group, often called a "think factory," was originally established as a Pentagon "inhouse" organization to advise and assist the Joint Chiefs of Staff in strategic studies and the evaluation of various weapons systems. I was directly responsive to the Joint Chiefs' requirements. Civilian scientists on the Government's payroll and some military men staffed the agency.

Leadership Rotates

The group is headed by a senior three-star officer, supplied by each of the services in turn, and all of its reports have, in the past, been reviewed by a board composed of three senior military representatives of the services and the civilian director of research and two other senior scientists.

Two changes in recent years have altered the relationships and composition of the Weapons Systems Evaluation Group. ons Systems Evaluation Group. First, the Institute of Defense Analysis, a nonprofit organization supported by nine universities and staffed primarily by civilian scientists, with a few retired officers, was created to devaluation work, under contract, for the group and later for other agencies in the Penatagon and in other Government departments partments.

The institute's civilian st entists formed a Weapons Syst ms
Evaluation Division to vorishand in hand—at the Pents on and within the Weapon Syst ms
Evaluation Group — with their military counterparts unde a military director.

Second, the Weapons Syst ms
Evaluation Group was made responsive also to the civilian Director of Research and Engineering, who is the number the man in the Office of the Seretary of Defense. The institute's civilian st entary of Defense.

The Institute of Defense Analysis is heace by Riclard M. Bissell, formerly Directo of Operations for the Central Intelligence Agency.

Mr. Bissell said yester lay that, as he understood it, the new directive was intender to provide more clarity in reports and the process of reporting He said that he regarded "close nilitary col'aboration" in the s udies conducted by the institute and by the evaluations group as absolutely essertial, and hat he felt that most military nen were reading into the directive "more than was intended.".

In the opinion of military nen the directive wou'd just a out eliminate any military con rol over the evaluation process and would make the Weapons systems Evaluation Group, as distinct from the Institute of Defense Analysis, virtually a: fth wheel.

Under the directive the institute would have almost total control over the group's studies, methods and reports. The inmethods and reports. The institute's reports would go directly to the Joint Chiefs of Staff and to the Office of the Secretary of Defense. The group's review board of three seientists would become purely advisory. advisory.

Military men say that his change would effectively fr cze out milicary officers from the group's studies; more im or-tant, it would, they say, re uce or eliminate the responsive ess of such studies to professi nal of such studies to profess that requirements.

There is also some con ern about security requirements, which have been very strin ent in the group's organization. The institute, it is said, want to rotate its sciencists among its various divisions; the mili ary fear that this would reduce security and make vital in illicurity and make vital in illi-gence information availabl to too many man who are u der contract to the Government but not directly on the Government's payroll.

The Primary Fear

The overriding worry in the military, however, is that the projected change will reduce still further the influence of professional military judgment in the decision-makingprocess. week that he had told a Pentagon civilian official:

"I think I'm going to let you have my uniform and you can fight the next war with the weapons you design."

The Institute of Defense Analysis, on the other hand, which is negotiating new contracts with the Pentagon, apparently believes that it is carrying out the intent of a recent governmental study of nonprofit organizations under contract to the Government.

The study, conducted by a special Presidential committee under the chairmanship of David E. Bell, Director of the Budget held that the Government must continue to rely on private companies and nonprofit groups for research projects, but warned against transferring "significant decision-making responsibility" from responsible Government officials to contract tual agencies.

Guard to Keep Few Planes On Return From Europe

By HANSON W. BALDWIN

Many squadrons of the Air National Guard, after duty during the Berlin crisis, will return to state service as skeletonized units, according to a National Guard survey.

When twenty-nine squadrons: d of the Guard were called to Federal service last fall, twelve of them were flying approximately 300 Republic F-84F jet fighter-bombers.

Most of these aircraft, though equipped and ready for nuclear delivery mission, were earmarked during their months of scrvice in Europe for conventional support roles.

In fact, the Guard provided the Air Force in Europe with a major share of the strengthened conventional-warfare capability that Kennedy Administration policies have stressed.

By the end of the year, arter the Guard squadrons have returned to state status, they will retain approximately forty-five F-84F aircraft, only enough for three or four aircraft a squadron (compared with the normal twenty-five).

The other aircraft are being turned over to the Regular Air Force to retain the augmented air strength in Europe and to help the Tactical Air Command activate five new wings (about seventy-five aircraft a wing) designated primarily for conventional support roles. Three fof the five new wings will be F-84 wings, and the National Guard planes are the only ones now available to equip them.

F-104's to Be Transferred

In addition to the National Guard F-84's, the reserve units will probably turn over to the regulars at least two squadrons of Lockheed F-104 fighter-interceptors.

A squadron from Knoxville. Tenn., which established a record for number of flying hours while in active service, will be converted to the older Convair F-102, or possibly to the still older F-86L. A squadron from Phoenix, Ariz., which was flying F-104's when it went into service, is scheduled tentatively for conversion to multi-engine C-97 transports.

. To compensate for the lack of F-84's, the Air Nationa Guard plans to convert mount six Guard squadrons nov re-furing from active duty to the North I merican F-86H, the Republic R 7-84F (the reconnaissance version of the F-84) and the No. th American F-100. Another six F-84 squadrons may divide he forty-five F-84's that the Guard is being allowed to keep. Ti ese units will augment their approximately eight planes per : quadron with Lockhead T-33 jet trainers, in order to keep pilo s'jet-qualified.

🚼 A shorta; a of pilots and other personnel will also greatly handicap the Air Guard in the next year ir so. The Regular 'Air Force as appealed to Air Guardsmen to remain on active duty, to he p activate the five new Tacti al Air Command wings.

About 2.0 Air Guardsmen who had been mobilized for the Berlin cris : have applied for extended a tive duty. Of these, 114 are pilo s.

New F lots Authorized

Ir, the f scal year 1963 the A r Guard is programmed for orly fifty seven new pilots (second lint mants); in the next year, i ir 1.10.

Difficulty is expected in replacing the pilots who are remainging in active duty and those who fill leave the Guard, and also in eplacing the ground technicians Some of the technicians ha been serving full time in Gu rd units even before mobilizatio

It is estimated that some squadrons may comprise only eight to tv elve pilots, as compured with the normal complement of about thirty-three.

Prospect are, therefore, that for some years to come the tactical sciaurons fo the Air National (uand, which proved their high state of readiness last fall kr. lying to Europe within a f w weeks of mobilization, wil have very little combat effectiveness. The personnel problem may be eased scope; that the aircraft shortage, although both are serious. Present plans contemplate the return of the F-84's and probably of the F-104's to the Guard two or three years hence, when the Regular Air Force is more fully equipped with the new Republic F-105 and the McDonnell F-110.

The real bottleneck, however, is aircraft production. No replacement for the current generation of fighter-bombers, specifically designed for conventional as well as nuclear capability, had been programmed.

Production Line Inadequate

The recent Air Force adoption of the F-110, which in its original version was the Navy's F-4H, places a requirement for a considerably increased number of these record-breaking planes on a production line that does not now have the capacity to meet the expanded needs quickly.

Thus, for some time to come, a considerable part of the Aim National Guard, highly ready last fall, will be at a very low state of readiness, through no fault of its own. And it may be quite a few years before it is equipped with really modern

'aircraft. There are some feelings of bitterness about this in the Guard pilot said that "this is wrather shoddy treatment of an outfit that really proved the concept of reserve forces in the Berlin build-up."

This bitterness is increased by the fact that the United States has been equipping some of its allies with F-100s and F-104's, more modern aircraft than the Guard will have fol-Flowing its reversion to state status. Some nations of the North Atlantic Treaty organization also will be equipped apparently with the Northrop N-*156 lightweight fighter.

"The Air Guard is losing out while foreign nations are legetting better equipment," an officer said.

not to furnish any additional information to the FBI. The Attorney General was told that it was thus evidenced that if had been first contacted at her office, we would have gotten no information at all. The Attorney General seemed satisfied with the explanations although he made no specific comment. I also pointed out to the Attorney General that there could well be more behind Reston's complaint than the incident involving the interview with An additional memorandum was delivered to his office today outlining the circumstances surrounding attempts to interview Mr. Baldwin himself early last evening. When Baldwin was contacted, he was very abrupt and said he was getting ready for dinner. Although the Agents explained that their interview would take only a few minutes and that they were willing to wait until after Mr. Baldwin had had his dinner, he refused and said the Agents should contact him at 10:30 in the morning at his office. I told the Attorney General we had learned that thereafter, Baldwin had been in contact with Reston; that there had been a good deal of talk about this whole investigation being aimed at intimidating newspapermen, with the blame for this being attributed to the Attorney General and the President. The Attorney General avoided any direct comment but asked out the investigation was progressing. I outlined for him the facts surrounding our interview with Secretary McNamara on Saturday and the steps being taken within the Defense Department to interview those persons having knowledge as to the briefings given concerning this particular subject matter. The Attorney General explained to Katzenbach, who was unfamiliar with the facts of this matter, the sensitive nature of the information contained in the Baldwin article and its effect on our security, saying that he hoped we would be able to get to the bottom of this one.

ACTION BEING TAKEN:

Our investigation in this matter is being expedited and regular reports are being submitted to the Attorney General by memorandum.

said he has been BALDWIN's				for	the	last twenty years.

He said he did not know HANSON W. BALDWIN's sources with respect to the column written by BALDWIN which appeared on the first page of "The New York Times" on 7/26/62. He said in response to the question "Do you in fact know the sources but decline to furnish them" that historically a newspaper man protects his sources of information. Again pressed for an answer to the question quoted, said he would decline to answer the question.

He declined to identify anyone whom he knew who might know BALDWIN's sources.

He said that he had set up some appointments for BALDWIN prior to BALDWIN's trip to Washington, DC, on 7/16/62. Some were made directly with the person involved, others indirectly through others. He declined to identify those with whom appointments were made directly or otherwise.

He stated that BALDWIN was not called to Washington, DC, prior to his trip there and he received no special call to come to develop the story which appeared on 7/26/62 over BALDWIN's name. He declined to say whether any portion of the article was prepared before or after BALDWIN's visit to Washington.

He declined to say when it was written.

He said that to appear in the paper on 7/26/62, it would have to be ready by 8:30 PM on 7/25/62 and perhaps earlier.

said he did not write the article or any portion of it. BALDWIN writes all his own material.

He did say he did some editing of the article. In reading the article to refresh his recollection, stated that it was all public knowledge and considers this type article a real public service.

In reading over paragraph four of the article commented: "That's very carefully worded--very general."

He was asked whether he knew if any portion of the material contained classified information. He said he did not.

He said BALDWIN and he had no discussion concerning the article as to care in its preparation due to the nature of the material in it, nor was there any suggestion by BALDWIN that it might contain classified information. He said there were no questions about it by any other member of the Times staff.

He was asked if in all instances he is equally knowledgeable with BALDWIN as to the sources, background and development of a story such as the one in question. He said not necessarily.

He said he had not been in touch with BALDWIN since the article appeared, and he had not contacted BALDWIN.

BALDUIN IN "THE HEN YORK THEES," JULY 26, 1962 EDPIONAGE - X W Reference is made to my letter dated July 27, 1962, in which it was pointed out that investigation in this metter was being conducted. For your information Hanson W. Baldwin has never been the subject of a full-scale investigation by this Dureau. He has, haver, been the subject of three inquiries based on articles be wrote in "The New York Times," issues of June 5, 1952, August 23, 1952, and October 10, 1955, each of which contained classified information. We interviewed Eslavin on January 4, 1953, at the spacific request of the then Assistant Attorney Caharel, Criminal Division, Department of Justice, in confection with the uncuthorized disclosures of classified information in the June 5, 1952, and August 23, 1952, issues Rbs the newspaper. Ealdwin at that time was asked to divulge the source for the information in the articles, but he refused Sto do so stating that as a good newspaperman he would be unable. to divulge his source. The then Assistant Attorney General, Criminal Division, by letter deted February 3, 1953, advised that in view of the refusel of Beldwin to disclose his source in addition to the wide dissemination of the information involved, further investigation was not werranted in those cases. inquiries in the leak in Baldwin's article in the October 10, . 1955, issue of Thy Haw Sout Times" disclosed that the data involved was not contained in any specific document but had appeared in mindial topographs is cued by the Atomic Inergy Tolson Belmont Mohr Callahan Conrad JFW:br DeLoach SEE KOTE PAGE 2 Malone . Commission and the Department of Defense which had been disseminated to hundreds of persons. As a result the then Assistant Attorney General, Internal Security Division, by letter dated February 23, 1956, advised that there was insufficient evidence to establish a violation of the espionage statutes and further investigation by this Bureau was not warranted.

The 1962 - 1963 issue of "Who's Who in America" indicates that Baldwin was born l'arch 22, 1903, in Baltimore, Maryland; that he graduated from the United States Maval Academy in 1924 when he was commissioned as an Ensign; that he resigned from the United States Mavy in 1927 with the rank of Lieutenant (junior grade); that he has been employed as a reporter and editor with "The New York Times" since 1929; and that he has held the position of Military Editor of "The New York Times" since 1942.

The files of this Bureau indicate that Baldwin in connection with his newspaper assignments has been in frequent contect with various United Status Covernment officials and is, of course, well known in United States Government circles; however, there is no indication as to any particular contact he may have who might have provided him information included in his July 26, 1962, article in "The New York Times."

We are conducting investigation of the captioned matter in a most expeditious manner and you will be kept advised of developments.

S. defense plans. In connection with articles of 6/5/52 and 8/23/52, at specific request of Criminal Division of Department, we had our New York Office interview Baldwin on 1/6/53 to determine if he was willing to divulge the sources of his information. Subject said that as a good newspaperman he would be unable to divulge his sources. Department subsequently advised that, in view of this refusal of the subject and since prior inquiries had shown that the security information involved had been widely disseminated further investigation was not warranted, and there was no way to determined whether the subject committed a violation of Federal, espionage laws. REC- 23 / 5 Concerning Baldwin serticle of 10,10/55, this concerned data regarding antiaircraft guided missiles which Atomic Energy Commission (AEC) reported was Secret-Restricted Data. AEC subsequently advised that information disclosed by Baldwin was not contained in any specific 100-79595) 18 AUG 13 1962 RDC:djw0 SENT DIRECTOR (8) document but had appeared in numerous documents issued by AEC or Defense Department which had been disseminated to hundreds of persons. As a result, in February, 1956, Internal Security Division of Department advised that, in its opinion, there was insufficient evidence to establish a violation of espionage statutes and that further investigation did not appear warranted. No actual investigation was undertaken by Bureau in this matter.

Review of Bufiles has shown that Baldwin, in connection with his newspaper assignment, has been in frequent contact with various U. S. Government officials and is, of course, well known in Government circles. However, there is no indication as to any particular high-level contact he may have who might have provided him data in his 7/26/62 article.

Baldwin is not known to have any specific subversive connections; however, he has been critical of the FBI on several occasions. For instance, in 1947 he wrote article in "Times" to the effect that while the FBI was rightly praised as a splendid criminal investigative agency, it did not deserve its "over-publicized" title as a counterespionage agency. In 1948 Baldwin wrote an article in the "Times" in which he alleged there was friction between Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) and the Bureau during transfer of intelligence responsibilities in Latin America from the Bureau to CIA following World War II. Baldwin's article placed the blame for this on FBI and contained several unfounded statements along these lines. During 1947, in our investigation of Alger Hiss case, we learned that Hiss wrote letter to an official at Stanford University in which he referred to Baldwin as "my friend."

No other information is available regarding Hiss-Baldwin relationship.

Results of our prior inquiries concerning Baldwin, based on his articles in "Times," have been furnished to Department, AEC, military intelligence agencies and CIA.

ACTION:

This is for information. A memorandum, containing Baldwin's background, was sent to the Attorney General on 7/30/62.

Inquiry in Annapolis, Maryland, indicated Rear Admiral WILLIAM F. FITZGERALD, JR. (Retired), Executive Director, Naval Academy Alumni Association, left Annapolis by auto on 8/8/62, and will be travelling to West Point, NY; New York City, and Camden, NJ, and will return to Annapolis late in the evening on 8/11/62. Further inquiry established that Vice Admiral GEORGE C. DYER (Retired) is residing in Melvin Village, N.H., and is not expected to return to Annapolis until Labor Day. DYER can be reached through P.O. Box 112 or phoned at Liberty 4-3354 in Melvin Village. In the absence of the above, FITZGERALD, was unable to locate any information which was of assistance in establishing the date of the BALDWIN, WRIGHT, FITZGERALD, DYER luncheon during the week of 7/16/62.

FITZGERALD to be interviewed 8/13/62, and based on results recommendations will be made re future interview of DYER.

Mr. EDWARD R. MURROW, Director of the United States Information Agency, advised that he has known BALDWIN for many years and has a high regard for his professional ability. He has not seen BALDWIN for the past year, and did not know that BALDWIN was in WDC during July, 1962. He was unable to identify the source of BALDWIN's information, however, he suggested that "The New York Times" may have had a staff of reporters working on this article.

Vice Admiral JOHN SYLVESTER, Deputy Chief of Naval Operations (Logistics) has known BALDWIN since they attended Naval Academy together. He did not see BALDWIN during July, 1962. Admiral SYLVESTER stated that it is his opinion and the opinion of other high ranking Naval officers that BALDWIN's source on which his article of 7/26/62, was based is a high placed civilian employee with the position of Assistant Secretary of Defense or above.

General CURTIS E. LE MAY, Chief of Staff, USAF, furnished no facts of value to investigation but expressed the opinion that no one wearing a uniform had furnished BALDWIN with information contained in 7/26/62, article. He stated he believes that the information was deliberately furnished to BALDWIN by the Administration but has no opinion as to the purpose to be served or the person who made the information available.

Secretary of State DEAN RUSK advised he attended NSC briefing on 7/9/62, and is familiar with contents of 11-8-62. Stated is acquainted with BALDWIN but cannot recall seeing or being otherwise in contact with him for about five years. Stated definitely has not seen or talked to him since he, RUSK, has held present position. Stated knows of no contacts of BALDWIN, nor could he furnish any information as to BALDWIN's activities during pertinent period. Could furnish no information as to possible identity of BALDWIN's source for article.

We have interviewed

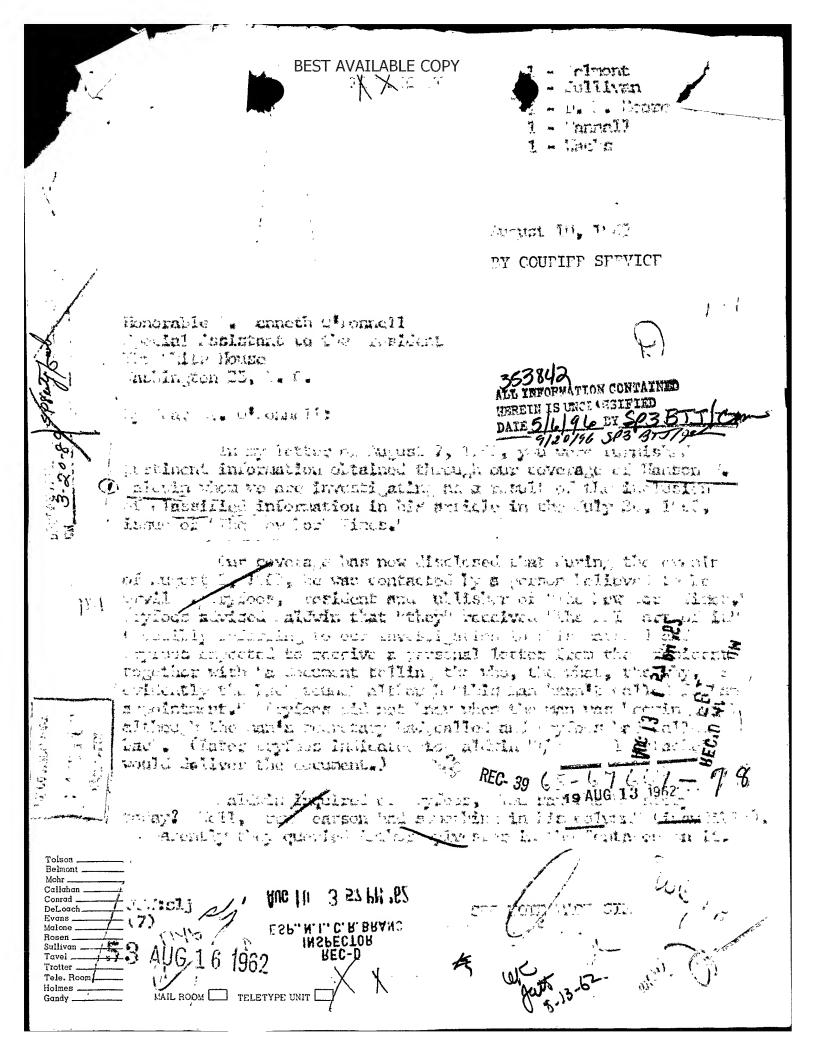

He refused to comment when asked if he knew any of Baldwin's sources. He used the familiar refrain that a good newspaperman must protect his sources. His attitude is an indication that he probably does know at least some of Baldwin's sources.
At the conclusion of this investigation, in the event we are not successful in determining Baldwin's sources for his 7/26 article, consideration will be given to suggesting to the Attorney General that ______ be called before a Grand Jury.

Taldein inquired if Dryloos had received "that letter I sent you from the young chap in the Lational Cuard Bureau. I comuse this is the sert of thing that I thin: is deplorable. The Administration is going to suffer for this because you cannot win loyalty that way." Pryloos indicated he had to "stick with this particular episode." (by "the young chap" baldwin was possibly referring to Major James C. Illiott, Ceputy Chief, Cefice of Bublic Affairs, Dational Cuard Aureau, Department of the Army, mentioned in my Aurest 7, 1962, Jetter.)

Taldwin stated, "I would like to gover the background of this. I didn't see frotty' (probably James esten of the Mashington, D. C., office of 'The lew York Times') "I wish I knd seen him personally, but when Featty talked to you, apparently be gave you the impression before. I don't know whether he did this time. One of the chief worsles of the Administration was the fact that the right hand didn't knew that the left hand was correct and "there is no question elect it." To which Makkin coplied, "Ball then, if this is true, then it seems to me this is something you had better take up very strongly." Implementated, 'That goes levend this cylesde. I'm involving type in a governmental function and who is no gove I don't tank to play."

Unided a replied, "Well, periago not but on the other hand I think you must to sake the strong joint that the press can't be bound by the fact the Covernment is collaracted. "I know, but he's bringing a letter, and I personally think your letter ought to be been to the resident after he's left. The less you may to the Maval Attache, the better. That's sy feeling. I don't know."

Taldain expressed ble convey for giving Exploss "bad dreams" but Explose stated that "if there was a violation it's their violation." Falighin doubted this and raid he thought that "they may be calling a big slew about how trong the "Times" was." Explose did not "thin's they'll be caying anything to anybedy on the outside" and Talanin indicated he did not mean in the cutside" but makes "in the letter to you." I'm a first color of you."

X X

Honorable P. Kenneth O'Donnell

Daldwin stated, "I don't think we're wrong either. I don't see that the 'Times' has any great responsibility for this. I think that they are really trying to put the blame where it doesn't belong. This isn't the first time. And it's pretty notorious around the Pentagon especially on the working press. I think that all the sympathy probably would be on our side of the fence. The fact they were so chary about having anything in print indicates this."

In addition to the above our coverage of Baldwin indicated that on August 9, 1962, Baldwin contacted his wife in the late afternoon and stated there was "no sweat" and everything would be all right.

It should be noted that our source was not able to give the complete details of all conversation between Baldwin and his associate; however, the above has been set forth in as much detail as possible.

Investigation in this case is continuing and you will be furnished pertinent developments.

HOLD FOR RELEASE UNTIL 6:30 P.M. (EDT) SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1962 NO. 980-62 OXford 53201-53176

REMARKS OF SECRETARY OF DEFENSE ROBERT S. McNAMARA AT THE COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES UNIVERSITY OF MICHIGAN ANN ARBOR, MICHIGAN SATURDAY, JUNE 16, 1962

I am glad to be home, and I am particularly glad to be here for a university occasion. For this University gives meaning and focus to life in Ann Arbor -- even for those who are not privileged to be associated with it directly -- as the academic community serves to clarify the objectives and focus the energies of the Free World.

President Kennedy aptly described the function of the university when he said: "The pursuit of knowledge ... rests ... on the idea of a world based on diversity, self-determination, and freedom. And that is the kind of world to which we Americans, as a nation, are committed by the principles upon which the great Republic was founded. As men conduct the pursuit of knowledge, they create a world which freely unites national diversity and international partnership."

Commencement orators like to point to the fact that what we celebrate here is not an end, but a beginning. I prefer to take my text from another aspect of the occasion which we are observing today.

The ancient formula for the award of academic degrees admits you into a long-established community, whether it be the fellowship of educated men, or the ancient and honorable company of scholars, of which you are the newest members. This community embodies the · highest ideals of the Free World. Its membership includes people of every race, color, and creed. They share a common language, the language of ideas. They are dedicated to the fullest possible development of the individual human potential. And the only requirement for admission is a demonstrated capacity for and commitment to the use of one's powers of reason.

What I want to talk to you about here today are some of the concrete problems of maintaining a free community in the world today. I want to talk to you particularly about the problems of the community that bind together the United States and the countries of Western Europe.

Europe is the source of many of our traditions. One of these is the tradition of the university, which we can trace back to the groves of Academe, on the same site where only a few weeks ago the foreign ministers and ministers of defense of the European nations and the United States met to discuss their common problems.

I need scarcely remind you that Europe is one of the great sources of the American idea of freedom, and that it was the European philosophers of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries who shaped the thinking of our own founding fathers. For all of us, Europe has been our teacher since we first learned to read.

One of the most impressive lessons that Europe has provided us recently is the lesson of her revival from the ashes of destruction at the end of the Second World War. The national economies of Europe were almost at standstill 15 years ago. Their capital plant was largely destroyed, either directly by bombing, or indirectly by years of neglect and patchwork repair. The people were exhausted by six years of war, and a large part of the most productive age group has been wiped out. Yet in the last 10 years, they have managed to increase the production of steel and electricity by over 130 percent each, and this has been typical of the recovery pattern.

The pump-priming help of the American Marshall Plan came at a crucial time in the process of European recovery. But the genius of the plan as envisaged by men like George Marshall and Harry Truman, was to help the Europeans help themselves.

At the same time that the nations of Europe were rebuilding at home, they were going through the difficult and often painful process of reestablishing their relationships with the peoples of Africa and Asia, no longer as a master and servant, but as members of the human race, all equally entitled to develop their individual capabilities. This process of change is by no means complete, and there are still difficult times ahead. But the joint achievement of Europe and its former colonies in revising their relations with each other is at least as impressive as the economic recovery of Europe itself.

What may be the greatest post-war European achievement is still in the making. The nations of Europe have begun to level the outmoded barriers that confined their individual economies within national boundaries. As Jean Monnet, the principal architect of the new Europe puts it,

"An entirely new situation has been created in the world, simply by adding six countries together. It's not an addition; in fact, it's a multiplication. You multiply the capabilities of the countries you unite. A dynamic process is beginning that is changing the face of Europe and the role of Europeans in the world."

The making of Europe has only begun, and indeed it is perhaps at its most critical stage. But we should not overlook the fact that French coal and German steel now move freely across the continent, and that German refrigerators and Italian shoes are being sold increasingly without restriction in Belgian department stores.

All of these achievements have been accomplished under pressure from titanic forces which make a rational organization of human society increasingly difficult both for the Europeans and for ourselves. Let me mention some of these forces.

We are confronted with a population explosion resulting from our own success in coping with disease and abnormalities, and by now threatening to double the earth's population by the end of this century. Unless we can control this explosion in the poor and resource-limited countries, the effects of economic growth may be cancelled out by population growth, and unsatisfied rising expectations, particularly in the younger nations, may upset the delicate balance of political stability.

We are borne along by the accelerating pace of science and technology. In this country alone, new inventions are patented at a rate of 50,000 a year. Our population of scientists and engineers has increased by more than 40 per cent in the last eight years. In fact, 80 per cent of all scientists and engineers who have lived throughout history are alive today.

We are faced with an extraordinary increase in the number of national states. Since World War II, 35 new nations have been formed. Each new nation expresses the natural desire for self-determination and self-government. But their numbers complicate the problem of international diplomacy at the same time that military and economic developments increase our interdependence. Every nation is more and more directly affected by the internal situation of its neighbors, and the globe has shrunk to the point where we are all each other's neighbors.

Lastly, we live in the shadow of the Sino-Soviet drive for world domination—surely not the only shadow on the world today, but one of the longest and deepest. By itself it represents the most serious military force this nation has ever faced; by its exploitation of the entire world's troubles, it is a threat of a kind that is as new to the world as the rising technologies and populations and national sovereignties themselves.

In the face of all these challenges, the ultimate objective of the free world is to establish a system of peaceful world order, based on the dignity of the individual and dedicated to the free development of each man's capacities. The members of the North Atlantic community -- the Europeans and ourselves -- bear a special responsibility to help achieve this objective. This responsibility derives from the strength of our internal institutions and the wealth of our material resources.

But we cannot hope to move toward our objective unless we move from strength. Part of that strength must be military strength. But I want to emphasize that we see our military strength not as the means of achieving the kind of world we seek, but as a shield to prevent any other nation from using its military strength, either directly or through threats and intimidation, to frustrate the aspirations we share with all the free peoples of the world. The aggressive use of military strength is foreign to the best traditions of the United States. And, as the President pointed out last week, "the basic problems facing the world today are not susceptible of a final military solution."

What the military component of our national power must do, and what we must see that it is capable of doing, is to assure to the peoples of the Free World the freedom to choose their own course of development.

Yet the nature and extent of the military power base needed to meet the entire spectrum of challenges confronting the Free World is beyond the capacity of any single nation to provide. Since our own security cannot be separated from the security of the rest of the Free World, we necessarily rely on a series of alliances, the most important of which is the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

NATO was born in 1949 out of the confrontation with the Soviet Union that ensued from the breakdown in relations between the former wartime allies. The Soviet Union had absorbed the states of eastern Europe into its own political framework, most dramatically with the Czechoslovakian coup of 1948. It had been fomenting insurrection in Greece, menacing Turkey, and encouraging the Communist parties in Western Europe to seize power in the wake of postwar economic disorder. The sharpest threat to Europe came with the first Berlin Crisis when the Russians attempted to blockade the western sectors of the city. Our response was immediate and positive. President Truman ordered an airlift for the isolated population of West Berlin which, in time, denied the Soviets their prize. The Marshall Plan, then in full swing, was assisting the economic recovery of the Western European nations. The Truman Doctrine had brought our weight to bear in Greece and Turkey to prevent the erosion of their independence.

But Western statesmen concluded that it would be necessary to secure the strength and growth of the North Atlantic community with a more permanent arrangement for its defense. The effective defense of Western Europe could not really be accomplished without a commitment of the United States to that defense for the long term. We made this commitment without hesitation. Arthur Vandenberg, one of the chief architects of NATO, expressed the rationale of the organization in the Senate debate preceding passage of the treaty,

"this is the logical evolution of one of the greatest American idioms, 'united we stand, divided we fall.'".

The North Atlantic Alliance is a unique alignment of governments. The provision for the common defense of the members has led to a remarkable degree of military collaboration and diplomatic consultation for a peacetime coalition. The growth of the alliance organization has accelerated as the task of defending the treaty area has increased in scope, size and complexity. NATO has had its stresses and strains, but it has weathered them all.

Today, NATO is involved in a number of controversies, which must be resolved by achieving a consensus within the organization in order to preserve its strength and unity. The question has arisen whether Senator Vandenberg's assertion is as true today as it was when he made it 13 years ago. Three arguments have raised this question most sharply:

It has been argued that the very success of Western European economic development reduces Europe's need to rely on the U.S. to share in its defenses.

It has been argued that the increasing vulnerability of the U.S. to nuclear attack makes us less willing as a partner in the defense of Europe, and hence less effective in deterring such an attack.

It has been argued that nuclear capabilities are alone relevant in the face of the growing nuclear threat, and that independent national nuclear forces are sufficient to protect the nations of Europe.

I believe that all of these arguments are mistaken. I think it is worthwhile to expose the U.S. views on these issues as we have presented them to our allies. In our view, the effect of the new factors in the situation, both economic and military, has been to increase the interdependence of national security interests on both sides of the Atlantic, and to enhance the need for the closest coordination of our efforts.

A central military issue facing NATO today is the role of nuclear strategy. Four facts seem to us to dominate consideration of that role. All of them point in the direction of increased integration to achieve our common defense. First, the Alliance has over-all nuclear strength adequate to any challenge confronting it. Second, this strength not only minimizes the likelihood of major nuclear war, but makes possible a strategy designed to preserve the fabric of our societies if war should occur. Third, damage to the civil societies of the Alliance resulting from nuclear warfare could be very grave. Fourth, improved non-nuclear forces, well within Alliance resources, could enhance deterrence of any aggressive moves short of direct, all-out attack on Western Europe.

Let us look at the situation today. First, given the current balance of nuclear power, which we confidently expect to maintain in the years ahead, a surprise nuclear attack is simply not a rational act for any enemy. Nor would it be rational for an enemy to take the initiative in the use of nuclear weapons as an outgrowth of a limited engagement in Europe or elsewhere. I think we are entitled to conclude that either of these actions has been made highly unlikely.

Second, and equally important, the mere fact that no nation could rationally take steps leading to a nuclear war does not guarantee that a nuclear war cannot take place. Not only do nations sometimes act in ways that are hard to explain on a rational basis, but even when acting in a "rational" way they sometimes, indeed disturbingly often, act on the basis of misunderstandings of the true facts of a situation. They misjudge the way ders will react, and the way of swill interpret what they are doing. We must hope, indeed I think we have good reason to hope, that all sides will understand this danger, and will refrain from steps that even raise the possibility of such a mutually disastrous misunderstanding. We have taken unilateral steps to reduce the likelihood of such an occurrence. We look forward to the prospect that through arms control, the actual use of these terrible weapons may be completely avoided. It is a problem not just for us in the West, but for all nations that are involved in this struggle we call the Cold War.

For our part, we feel we and our NATO allies must frame our strategy with this terrible contingency, however remote, in mind. Simply ignoring the problem is not going to make it go away.

The U. S. has come to the conclusion that to the extent feasible, basic military strategy in a possible general nuclear war should be approached in much the same way that more conventional military operations have been regarded in the past. That is to say, principal military objectives, in the event of a nuclear war stemming from a major attack on the Alliance, should be the destruction of the enemy's military forces, not of his civilian population.

The very structh and nature of the Alliance rces make it possible for us to retain, even in the face of a massive surprise attack, sufficient reserve striking power to destroy an enemy society if driven to it. In other words, we are giving a possible opponent the strongest imaginable incentive to refrain from striking our own cities.

The strength that makes these contributions to deterrence and to the hope of deterring attack upon civil societies even in wartime does not come cheap. We are confident that our current nuclear programs are adequate and will continue to be adequate for as far into the future as we can reasonably foresee. During the coming fiscal year, the United States plans to spend close to $15 billion on its nuclear weapons to assure their adequacy. For what this money buys, there is no substitute.

In particular, relatively weak national nuclear forces with enemy cities as their targets are not likely to be sufficient to perform even the function of deterrence. If they are small, and perhaps vulnerable on the ground or in the air, or inaccurate, a major antagonist can take a variety of measures to counter them. Indeed, if a major antagonist came to believe there was a substantial likelihood of it being used independently, this force would be inviting a pre-emptive first strike against it. In the event of war, the use of such a force against the cities of a major nuclear power would be tantamount to suicide, whereas its employment against significant military targets would have a negligible effect on the outcome of the conflict. Meanwhile, the creation of a single additional national nuclear force encourages the proliferation of nuclear power with all of its attendant dangers.

In short, then, limited nuclear capabilities, operating independently, are dangerous, expensive, prone to obsolescence, and lacking in credibility as a deterrent. Clearly, the United States nuclear contribution to the Alliance is neither obsolete nor dispensable.

At the same time, the general strategy I have summarized magnifies the importance of unity of planning, concentration of executive authority, and central direction. There must not be competing and conflicting strategies to meet the contingency of nuclear war. We are convinced that a general nuclear war target system is indivisible, and if, despite all our efforts, nuclear war should occur, our best hope lies in conducting a centrally controlled campaign against all of the enemy's vital nuclear capabilities, while retaining reserve forces, all centrally controlled.

We know that the same forces which are targeted on ourselves are also targeted on our allies. Our own strategic retaliatory forces are prepared to respond against these forces, wherever they are and whatever their targets. This mission is assigned not only in fulfillment of our treaty commitments but also because the character of nuclear war compels it. More specifically, the U. S. is as much concerned with that portion of Soviet nuclear striking power that can reach Western Europe as with that portion that also can reach the United States. In short, we have undertaken the nuclear defense of NATO on a global basis. This will continue to be our objective. In the execution of this mission, the weapons in the European theater are only one resource among many.

There is, for example, the POLARIS force, which we have been substantially increasing, and which, because of its specially invulnerable nature, is peculiarly well suited to serve as a strategic reserve force. We have already announced the commitment of five of these ships, fully operational, to the NATO Command.

This sort of commitment has a corollary for the Alliance as a whole. We want and need a greater degree of Alliance participation in formulating nuclear weapons policy to the greatest extent possible. We would all find it intolerable to contemplate having only a part of the strategic force launched in isolation from our main striking power.

We shall cominue to maintain powerful nucleon forces for the Alliance as a whole. As the President has said, "Only through such strength can we be certain of deterring a nuclear strike, or an over-whelming ground attack, on our forces and allies."

But let us be quite clear about what we are saying and what we would have to face if the deterrent should fail. This is the almost certain prospect that, despite our nuclear strength, all of us would suffer deeply in the event of major nuclear war.

We accept our share of this responsibility within the Alliance. And we believe that the combination of our nuclear strength and a strategy of controlled response gives us some hope of minimizing damage in the event that we have to fulfill our pledge. But I must point out that we do not regard this as a desirable prospect, nor do we believe that the Alliance should depend solely on our nuclear power to deter actions not involving a massive commitment of any hostile force. Surely an Alliance with the wealth, talent, and experience that we possess can find a better way than extreme reliance on nuclear weapons to meet our common threat. We do not believe that if the formula, e=mc², had not been discovered, we should all be Communist slaves. On this question, I can see no valid reason for a fundamental difference of view on the two sides of the Atlantic.

With the Alliance possessing the strength and the strategy I have described, it is most unlikely that any power will launch a nuclear attack on NATO. For the kinds of conflicts, both political and military, most likely to arise in the NATO area, our capabilities for response must not be limited to nuclear weapons alone. The Soviets have superiority in non-nuclear forces in Europe today. But that superiority is by no means overwhelming. Collectively, the Alliance has the potential for a men under arms than the Soviet Union and its European satellites. We have already shown our willingness to contribute through our divisions now in place on European soil. In order to defend the populations of the NATO countries and to meet our treaty obligations, we have put in hand a series of measures to strengthen our non-nuclear power. We have added $10 billion for this purpose to the previously planned level of expenditures for fiscal years 1962 and 1963. To tide us over while new permanent strength was being created, we called up 158,000 reservists. We will be releasing them this summer, but only because in the meantime we have built up on an enduring basis more added strength than the call-up temporarily gave us. The number of U. S. combat-ready divisions has been increased from 11 to 16. Stockpiled in Europe now are full sets of equipment for two additional divisions; the men of these divisions can be rapidly moved to Europe by air.

We expect that our allies will also undertake to strengthen further their non-nuclear forces, and to improve the quality and staying power of these forces. These achievements will complement our deterrent strength. With improvements in Alliance ground force strength and staying power, improved non-nuclear air capabilities, and better equipped and trained reserve forces, we can be assured that no deficiency exists in the NATO defense of this vital region, and that no aggression, small or large, can succeed.

I have described very briefly the United States' views on the role of nuclear forces in the strategy of the Alliance. I have pointed out that the Alliance necessarily depends, for the deterrance of general nuclear war, on the powerful and well protected nuclear forces of the United States, which are necessarily committed to respond to enemy nuclear strikes wherever the may be made. At the same time, I have indicated the need for substantial non-nuclear forces within the Alliance to deal with situations where a nuclear response may be inappropriate or simply not believable. Throughout I have emphasized that we in the Alliance all need each other.

I want to remind you also that the security provided by military strength is a necessary, but not sufficient, condition for the achievement our foreign policy goals, including our goals in the field of arms control and disarmament. Military security provides a base on which we can build Free World strength through the economic advances and political reforms which are the object of the President's programs, like the Alliance for Progress and the Trade Expansion legislation. Only in a peaceful world can we give full scope to the individual potential, which is for us the ultimate value.

A distinguished European visited the United States last month as a guest of the President. Andre Malraux, French Minister of State for Cultural Affairs, is an eminent novelist and critic. He led an archae-ological expedition to Cambodia and fought in the Spanish Civil War and the French Resistance Movement. Malraux paid a moving tribute to our nation when he said: "The only nation that has waged war but not worshipped it, that has won the greatest power in the world but not sought it, that has wrought the greatest weapon of death but has not wished to wield it... May it inspire men with dreams worthy of its action."

The community of learning to which you have been admitted carries with it great privileges. It also carries great responsibilities. And perhaps the greatest of these is to help ensure the wise use of our national power. Let me paraphrase Malraux: May your dreams be worthy of action and your actions be shaped by your dreams.

We, of course, are also attempting to determine just how widespread the information in the document was. We have been advised that the information was disseminated on a limited basis and It has been the consensus of opinion of those interviewed that Baldwin was furnished the information for his article by someone (U) who had read the Estimate. It has been our theory based on information developed that Baldwin probably got the information from someone on a high level in the Government since he customarily only contacts such persons. OBSERVATIONS:

We have interviewed a number of newspapermen and never have any revealed their sources. This appears to be their established code. There is no indication that Rogers would be different. In addition, the chances of his furnishing Baldwin's sources are remote. Although we have interviewed a number of individuals in this case, none has indicated that Rogers ever submitted a story to Defense for clearance which contained pertinent classified data

(U)

Rogers' inquiry of HIISman appears to be speculative and it is noted he did not push the issue. It is also noted that no one else has indicated in this case that Rogers contacted him. In addition, there is no indication that Rogers was knowingly in possession of classified data. To interview Rogers would open up this investigation further and possibly subject the Bureau to criticism for interviewing a newspaperman who was not even involved in the leak.

ACTION:

If you approve, the enclosed airtel to WFO will be forwarded. Therein it is indicated no interview with Rogers should be conducted since he cannot be expected to provide any information of interest.

DURING EVENING OF JULY 30, 1962 NY 3698-S* ADVISED THAT 'J. B. RESTON, NY TIMES, CONTACTED HANSON W. BALDWIN, SAYING HE WAS "GOD DAMN MAD" ABOUT SOMETHING. BALDWIN SAID HE WAS MAD TOO AND THOUGHT HE KNEW WHAT RESTON WAS GOING TO SAY.

RESTON SAID THAT TODAY WAS CONTACTED AT HOME BY AN F. B. I. MAN WHO PROPERLY IDENTIFIED HIMSELF. SHE WAS MERELY ASKED THE QUESTION, "WHOM HAD YOU SEEN WHEN YOU WERE DOWN HERE." FBI AGENT TO CALL WALLY CARROLL OR RESTON, BUT DID SAY THAT BALDWIN HAD SEEN EVERYBODY, MC NAMARA, GILPATRIC AND VERYBODY ELSE. BALDWIN THEN SAID THAT TWO FBI MEN HAD CALLED AT HIS HOME THIS EVENING, AND HE HAD REFUSED TO SEE THEM, SAYING THAT HE WOULD ONLY SEE THEM AT HIS OFFICE. RESTOR REMARKED "IT'S A GOD DAMN OUTRAGE AND WE OUGHT TO PRINT THE WHOLE THING." BALDWIN AGREED AND SUGGESTED RESTON TELL ORVILLE (BELIEVED TO BE ORVILLE DRYFOOS, NY TIMES PUBLISHER). BALDWIN SAID, "THEY ARE AFTER MY SOURCES." BALDWIN AND RESTON AGREED THAT THEY SHOULD HEAR THEM (FBI) BALDWIN THEN REMARKED "THIS IS GOING VERY FAR IN THIS ADMINISTRATION. BALDWIN SAID THAT THE IRON CURTAIN AROUND THE PENTAGON IS JUST AS PRONOUNCED AS IN OTHER PLACES. HE STATED THAT HE HAD ALWAYS BEEN MOST DISCREET ABOUT THE MILITARY IN PROTECTING SOURCES, AND HAD ALSO HELD BACK ON CERTAIN THINGS, "AS IN THE AUGUST PROJECT AND THEN THEY WENT AHEAD AND PRINTED IT. I RESENT THIS KIND OF PRESSURE."

RESTON THEN SAID, "I RESENT THAT THESE GUYS HAD ENOUGH GUTS TO COME KNOCK ON YOUR DOOR, BUT WHAT IS REALLY SNEAKY IS CALLING UP A POOR-" BALDWIN INTERRUPTED TO SAY HE HOPED RESTON HAD APOLOGIZED TO HER FOR HIM, AND THEN SAID, "SHE SIMPLY TOLD THEM THAT I SAW EVERYBODY, DIDN'T SHE?" RESTON SAID THAT WAS CORRECT.

RESTON THEN SAID, "WHEN THEY BEGIN TO DO THIS THING IN WASHINGTON, IT BECOMES A QUESTION OF WHETHER WE ARE GOING TO REPORT THE NEWS OR NOT."

If the intelligence contained in the above message is to be disseminated outside the Bureau, it is suggested that it be suitably paraphrased in order to protect the Bureau's cryptographic systems.

RESTON THEN BAID, "AFTER ALL IT TAKES TO DEAL WITH KENNEDY WHO ESSENTIALLY IS A POLITICIAN AND NOT A COPIS FOR US TO PRINT THE NEWS. THIS IS MORE DAMAGING TO HIM THAN THE INFORMATION HE WOULD GAIN BY TELLING TO EVERYBODY YOU SAW."

BALDWIN SAID HE WOULD CALL RESTON AFTER TALKING TO THESE PEOPLE (FBI).

RESTON SAID, "IF WE PRINTED A STORY OF WHAT'S GOING ON DOWN HERE, I DON'T PROPOSE TO TAKE IT UP AS A POLICY MATTER. I PROPOSE, IF YOU AGREE, AFTER WE KNOW WHAT MORE IS BACK OF ALL THIS, MERELY TO FILE A STORY, THEN IF THEY WANT TO TAKE THE RESPONSIBILITY OF KILLING IT, WE'LL KNOW WHERE WE ARE."

I told that we have not lost sight of the possible use of the polygraph in this case, but we have not considered it advisable to ask this question across the board during the current interviews; if we are going to ask it of one person we would, of course, ask it of all. I told him that, as the investigation progresses, it y well be that this technique will be used where considered feasible. thanked him for calling.

You will recall that in the initial stages of this matter, when Eythe AG requested us to conduct investigation, he commented on the Expossibility of requiring Defense officials who talked to Baldwin to undergo a polygraph test. We should keep this in the back of our thinds in the event we consider it feasible or desirable to use this Sotechnique during this investigation at some stage.

Hororable F. Kerneth O'Dornell

Special Assistant to the President

In connection with our investigation concerning the unauthorized disclosure of classified information in the article by Hanson W. Galdwin in "The New York Times," issue of July 26, we interviewed in Roger Hilsman, a meater of the Galter States Evaluation Loard, on August 4, 1962, at the legartment of State. While Mr. Hilsman could be of no assistance we to caldwin's sources for the July 26 erticle, he did Edvise that several weeks ago he received a call from Warren Rogers, a reporter for the "New York Herald Tribune." at the tige Rojers stated, "I get emenations from Air Force " Friends that the Soviets are hardening some of their missile V sites." ir. Milsman pointed out that he told Rogers that he M knew nothing concerning the matter, and Rogers indicated that since in. Wilsman was unaware of this information there was proceedly nothing to it.

Secretary of the Navy Fred Korth, when interviewed on lugust 4, 1962, advised that he saw Paldwin in his office on July 16, 1962, but no discussion of intelligence matters took place. Er. Korth had no information concerning Baldwin!s sources or contacts; however, he had the opinion that Laldwin's information may have come from personnel of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

No somment on Report Newsman Being Shadowed

The Defense Department yestenday refused to comment on a published report that Secretary Robert S. McNamara asked the FBI to investigate the information sources of Hanson Baldwin, military writer for the New York Times.

Although he refused comment on that report, Assistant Defense Secretary Arthur Sylvester denied Mr. Mc. Namara has ordered or approved "shadowing" of any newsmen in or out of the Pentagon. (UPI).

Pentagon Mute On Press Quiz

United Press International

The Defense Department refused to comment yesterday on a published report that Secretary Robert S. Mc-Namara had asked the FBI to investigate information sources of the New York Times military editor.

Although refusing comment on that report, Assistant Defense Secretary Arthur Sylvester denied that any newsmen have been "shadowed" inside or outside the Pentagon at McNamara's direction or with his approval.

The report of an FBI inquiry was published yesterday in the Drew Pearson column, written in Pearson's absence overseas by his associate, Jack Anderson.

Sylvester said that the Pentagon "of course" attempts to find out how sensitive information leaks into the press.

follow or investigate any newspaperman and then he further said-this is amusing, it indicates the state of mind of the reporters in the Pentagon-he said he denied that the press room telephones in the Pentazon were tapped. Then he went on to wention -he's the Washington 'Evening Star' some weeks ago had an exclusive story which he had discussed with Mr. McNamara. I had heard this before from And Ar. McNamara apparently had told him not to He didn't use it. Ar. McMamara then went to the Joint Chiefs of Staff and" (inaudible) "then to find out where had gotten it. Of course it irked quite a lot. And Sylvester mentioned this" (inaudible). "That was the b6 gist of the story. b7C

"I would like to point out that the President has done this same thing before. He sent General Taylor to see Mr. Luce, Harry Luce, after the Cuban invasion and complaining about the story that 'Fortune' magazine carried by The President denounced this story at a press conference and very unwisely, I think, sent General Taylor to see Mr. Luce.
And Mr. Luce did have and also And Hr. fuce did have and also of Fortune, in at the time Taylor came and laylor made some nine" (inaudible)" specifications of what he alleged were errors. And both refuted them. At least that's the story I get. Taylor at the end said let's forget it. He was ordered to do the job. I do think Taylor would have undertaken this unless he was ordered. was alleged to have said that we wen't forget it because the President called us a liar in public or words to that effect. But this sort of thing has been done before. think the great danger here, Orv, and I think it's something you're very conscious of because we talked about it the other day, because the President may attempt to the your hands completely, not only for now but for the future. And I think this can be a great danger. So I think that all you can do is play it by ear."

Dryfoos advised Baldwin that "they have a complete report on the incident" indicating "what the facts are." Baldwin then asked, "They don't allege to have said who said what to me?" In reply Dryfoos advised, "I haven't seen it,

The Moner

The Attorney General

I don't know. That's the kind of thing that after I see, I won't be able to discuss afterward." Baldwin said, "The point of the thing that I think you ought better be wary of, because I think this involves the paper. It seems to be that is the sort of thing that you shouldn't let yourself be tied up on, if I just may offer that suggestion. I think that if it's a question of secret sources, I weam by that information we may be getting from Russia, or ways of getting it, that's another thing altogether."

Dryfoos commented that he could not be "bound" by the document and he would not be able to discuss it. He also said that if it was a personal document from the President he would look at it and give it back to "the Naval Attache." Baldwin commented that he understood. Baldwin also stated that "you have to be pretty careful what you say to the Naval Attache and to the President afterwards." Baldwin also commented, "We're all on the same team. What I mean is that we're all as interested in America as he is or is anyone else." When Dryfoos stated he would take the responsibility Baldwin indicated he did not want Dryfoos to do so and he would be "glad" to share the responsibility with him.

Baldwin inquired if Dryfoos had received "that letter I sent you from the young chap in the National Guard Dureau. Because this is the sort of thing that I think is deplerable. The Administration is going to suffer for this because you cannot win loyalty that way." Bryfoos indicated he had to "stick with this particular episode." (By "the young chap" Baldwin was possibly referring to Najor James C. Elliott, Deputy Chief, Office of Public Affairs, National Guard Dureau, Department of the Army, mentioned in my August 1, 1962, letter.)

Dryfoos and Baldwin agreed they were "talking blind" and Dryfoos commented, "Maybe I can talk less blind after I get this thing." Baldwin then remarked, "Well, it seems clear that when the President brings up a subject like this, you obviously have to acknowledge it and be polite. There is another point of view to it that the methods employed can never be forgotten and I think this is vital for a free press. And it's vital for any sense of loyalty for the people who are wearing the uniform. This has happened twice now in the Fentagon. It's created a terrific amount of distress. And it naturally vouid."

THE SECRET

The Attorney General

Baldwin also told Dryfoos that if "they can spell this out at all you can say that you know nothing of what the source is." To which Dryfoos commented, "Well, that's why I'm delighted I don't." Baldwin replied, "And you must so report and this is a safeguard of the press and it always has been. That you don't intend to violate it. I think you have to make that point."

Baldwin stated, "I would like to get at the background of this. I didn't see Scotty" (probably James Reston of the Washington, D. C., office of "The New York Times") "I wish I had seen him personally, but when Scotty talked to you, apparently he gave you the impression before. I don't know whether he did this time. One of the chief worries of the Administration was the fact that the right hand didn't know what the left hand was doing." Dryfoos pointed out that Baldwin's statement was correct and "there is no question about it." To which Baldwin replied, "Well then, if this is true, then it seems to me this is something you had better take up very strongly." Dryfoos stated, "That goes beyond this episode. I'm involving myself in a governmental function and this is a game I don't want to play."

Daldwin replied, "Well, perhaps not but on the other hand I think you want to make the strong point that the press can't be bound by the fact the Government is embarrassed. After all, you're talking to a Maval Attache here. I don't think you have to say anything to him and I wouldn't." When Dryfoos pointed out that the "Maval Attache" was acting as a messenger Baldwin said, "I know, but he's bringing a letter, and I personally think your letter ought to be back to the President after he's left. The less you say to the Maval Attache, the better. That's my feeling. I don't know."

Baldwin expressed his sorrow for giving Dryfoos "bad dreams" but Dryfoos stated that "if there was a violation it's their violation." Baldwin doubted this and said he thought that "they may be making a big show about how wrong the 'Times' was." Dryfoos did not "think they'll be saying anything to anybody on the outside" and Baldwin indicated he did not mean "on the outside" but rather "in the letter to you." When Dryfoos pronounced, "We're only wrong if they're wrong too,"

Daldwin stated. "I don't think we're wrong either. I den't see that the 'Tiles' has any great responsibility for this. I think that they are really trying to put the blane where it doesn't belong. This isn't the first time. And it's pretty notorious around the Pentagon especially on the working press. I think that all the sympathy probably would be on our side of the fence. The fact they were so chary about having anything in print indicates this."

In addition to the above our coverage of Baldwin indicated that on August 9, 1962, Baldwin contacted his wife in the late effections and stated there was "no sweat" and everything would be all right.

It should be noted that our source was not able to give the complete details of all conversation between baldain and his associate; however, the above has been set forth in as much detail as possible.

Investigation in this case is continuing and you will be furnished parainent developments.

great many, of course, are in the Department of Defense and we are appreciative of the cooperation shown us.

I also advised the group that in addition to pressing this line of inquiry, we would like to determine Mr. Baldwin's contacts on his visit to Washington during the week of 7-16. Mr. Baldwin stayed at the Jefferson Hotel, made various centacts in Government and was at the Pentagon for at least part of two days. Inquiry by General Carroll's office determined only that Mr. Baldwin was in contact with the Secretary of Defense on 7-19. We feel he must have contacted others and would like the opportunity of talking to anyone present or anyone in their departments or staffs who were in contact with Mr. Baldwin during this week. I requested that each of those present take the necessary action within their own department or staff to determine who Baldwin was in contact with.

I also told them that we would like to request during our inquiry something more than merely acquiescence and cooperation in what we do, but any positive action which they can take or suggest in order to make the inquiry productive.

I advised them that in accordance with original suggestion, we have been in contact with General Carroll's office and can be contacted through that office and are most willing and anxious to talk to anyone at any time.

After I concluded, some questions were asked with regard to the article by Baldwin and with regard to his visit to Washington and thereafter thanked me for being present.

ARTICLE BY HANSON_W. IN "THE NEW YORK TIMES" 7-26-62

ESPIONAGE - X

This memorandum is submitted to advise the current status of our investigation in this matter and to recommend a course 🐠 action with regard to remaining investigation. We were originally advised that approximately 300 to 400 people probably had access to information which could have formed the basis for Baldwin's article. From inquiries made during our investigation we have now received the names of approximately 750 individuals who reportedly had such information and we have not received a list of such individuals from the Office of Naval Intelligence (ONI) and the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). It appears quite obvious that over double the number originally estimated had access to the information.

As of noon, 8-7-62, the Agents specially cleared to conduct this investigation have interviewed approximately 125 people, including the Secretary of Defense, Deputy Secretary of Defense, Secretary of the Navy, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff (JCS) and many other high ranking officials in the Department of Defense, the Army, that Baldwin has many high ranking contacts and was in touch with several of them during his visit to Washington July 16 through 19. The several of them during his visit to manifestation.

1962. Those interviewed have denied being the source for his material in the article. The remaining interviews are being pressed in the article. several of them during his visit to Washington July 16 through 19, terial in the article. The remaining interviews are being pressed and we are concentrating our interviews on the higher ranking individuals both in the military and civilian agencies as our investigation has clearly indicated that Baldwin deals on a high level and his source is most likely a high ranking official.

In reviewing this investigation today with SAC Johnson, Supervisor | and Special Agent Robert Byrnes of the Washington Field Office, it was our opinion that approximately 125 additional high ranking officials should be interviewed and, in addition, any individual known to have been in contact with Baldwin or known to be friendly with him. Among the more prominent individuals yet to be interviewed are Secretary of State Rusk, Secretary of the Treasury Dillon, General Maxwell Taylor, Mr. Edward R. Murrow (USIA) and Mr. Glenn T. Seaborg, Chairman of the AEC. It is believed that Agents presently cleared to conduct investigation in this matter could complete these interviews no later than 8-17-62 and a report could be submitted to the Bureau by 8-20-62. This report would contain the results of interviews of approximately 250 high ranking officials, would show the dissemination of the information within the Government and would show the contacts made by Baldwin with various individuals having access to the information.

It is believed that on receipt of this report it would be proper, if desired, to furnish copies of the report to the Attorney General, the White House, the Secretary of Defense and Mr. John A. McCone in his capacity as the head of the U. S. Intelligence Board and at the same time in disseminating the report to the Attorney General we could highlight what our investigation has disclosed, advise him we will not complete inquiries of the various remaining individuals having access to the information unless so requested by him and suggest to him the possibility of having Baldwin appear before a grand jury in an attempt to obtain his source of information. It is believed that interviews with approximately 600 individuals of a lower rank and not likely to have been in contact with Baldwin would be unproductive and if conducted with the limited personnel cleared for this investigation, would run on for a considerable period of time and might subject the Bureau to criticism for prolonging the investigation.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

(1) The Washington Field Office be instructed to continue to press interviews with the high ranking officials having access to the information (or those individuals known to have been in contact or friendly to Baldwin) and make every effort to complete these interviews no later than 8-17-62 and submit a report to reach the Bureau by 8-20-62.

Suggest initially we restrict discerning to these suggest initially we restrict discerning to these (2) That dissemination of the report be made to the Attorney General, the White House, the Secretary of Defense and Mr. McCone and that the Attorney General be specifically requested to advise whether additional interviews are desired and further that he consider the advisability of having Baldwin appear before a grand jury in an attempt to determine his source.

had no other data pertinent to this investigation. We have escertained that during the period July 16 to July 19 or 20, 1962, Baldwin was in Washington, D. C., and stayed at the Jufferson Hotel, 1200 Sixteenth Street, Northwest, Washington, D. C. To date it has not been learned who Baldwin's sources were for the information contained in the July 26 article; however, we have developed certain information of interest.

An attempt was made to interview Baldwin on July 30, 1962, when Special Agents of our New York, New York, Office contacted him at his home in Chappeque, New York, at 6:50 p.m. Immediately after the FBI Agents identified themselves and prior to their having the opportunity to state the purpose of the interview, Baldwin stated that he could not talk to them at that time since he had just arrived at his home and was preparing to eat his dinner. Balawin stated that he would have preferred to have had the Agents make an appointment with him at his office, and he pointed out that if the Agents wented to interview him, they could see him at his office at 10:30 a.m. on July 31. When the Agents attempted to explain that they wented to telk to him for only a few minutes and would gladly wait until he finished his dinner, Beldwin refused to continue the discussion. In view of his resentment and arregance, we thought it best not to follow up an attempt to interview him, particularly as we anticipated his office would be "burged." In the event he calls our New York Office, which he has not done to date. We will advise him we offered the courtesy of an interview and if he desires to be interviewed, we will suggest he come to our New York Office.

evening of July 30, 1962, he was contacted by James B. Meston of the Washington, D. G., office of "The New York Times."

Reston and Baldwin agreed that they were "mad" about the attempted interview with Baldwin and the interview with Baldwin said he had refused to see the FBI b6

Agents. Reston indicated that he considered the attempt b70 to interview Baldwin an outrage. Baldwin told Reston, "This is going very far in this administration. I think it is extremely dangerous." Reston in reply pointed out, "There is a strange feeling in Congress that a dossier is being kept on all these people. Probably a good deal comes out of their inagination and guilty conscience, but there is this suspicion that this kind of tactic is being used." Baldwin agreed that "this" is a new and different tactic "similar to what happened with reporters in the middle of the night at the time of the steel price rise." Baldwin also said that he thought "the real answer to this is Bobby Kennedy and the President himself, but Bobby Kennedy particularly putting pressure on Hoover."

Concerning the interviews Reston commented, "When they begin to do this thing in Washington, it becomes a question of whether we are going to report the news or not." Baldwin pointed out, "When I reported that Kennedy ordered the FBI into the Pentagon before the Burlin crisis, Kennedy became angry, and then there was a story wrote in about various solutions for the Barlin crisis and Kennedy blew his top. They actually went to and did some of these crumpy intimidating tectics." In this instance Baldwin probably was referring to our investigation conducted in 1961 concerning the leak of classified information which appeared in the July 3, 1961, issue of megazine in the article captioned
Reston indicated to Baldwin that he night attempt to induct

During the instant investigation, we have interviewed individuals including many who were in contact with the baldwin during his visit to mashington from July 16 through July 19, 1962. Certain additional individuals who were not available for interview will be interviewed in the immediate interviewed and you will be advised of the results of these interviews as soon as completed. Some officials at the White House and you arious other departments who are not known to have been in contact with baldwin have not been interviewed in connection with this investigation.

The Attorney General

It was originally estimated that approximately 300 to 400 people had access to information which could have been the source of Baldwin's article. Our investigation has indicated that approximately 710 individuals are believed to have had access to this information. Inasmuch as our investigation has indicated that Baldwin deals on an extremely high level, we do not contemplate interviewing the various individuals at a lower level believed to have had access to this information in the absence of a specific request.

It is noted that during the investigation, we were able to establish that while Baldwin was in Washington, D. C., he contacted 22 individuals currently on a high level in the Government as well as three recently retired high-level officials. According to the facts developed, Baldwin apparently has almost unlimited access to sources on a high echelon within the Government, either friends or acquaintances of many years. It appears that Government officials have talked to him quite freely. The very fact that Baldwin was able to contact in a period of four days so many persons knowledgeable of highly classified data creates a presumption that information of value was imparted to him. Investigations of previous leak cases have indicated a like entree by other well-known reporters.

It is noted that the investigation indicates that Baldwin probably also gathered information during his July trip to Washington, D. C., which was used for his articles in "The New York Times" issues of July 28 and 29, 1962.

This situation to me again emphasizes the conviction that investigations are not the answer to the problem of lead of classified information. Rather a general strengthening of procedures within the various agencies relating to the handling of classified information would appear to be the solution. Unless this is accomplished, there can be no assurance that other serious unauthorized disclosures of classified information will not occur.

In competite with or investigation in this watter, our covereds of Terson 1. Addivin disclosed that on August 17, 1992, he was in contact with Coldrin reducted to "a very good article" in 'Look' regreins on 'Rennedy and the Press' pointing out that the article cit ? "some of these incidents that have occurred in the past." Saldwin sold, "It doesn't cite thow all and doesn't cite this gocent one, of course." (Baldwin appearantly referred to the erticle in the August 20, 1962, issue of "Leck" entitled "Remady was the Bress" by Matcher Marbol.)

commented, 'But if someone doesn't stand up to him - -. does he think he is? I'd punch him in the mose."

Laldwin again referred, in a critical vein, to cut interviews with the "secretary in Mashington," opporently

Later the Tachington, D. C., will c of The New York Times," and with Coor Advired William de Vitagreald, Jr., Amoutive Director of the U. S. Howal Lands, The mil Association. Inlight indicated with respect to theog Letter interview that he thought it was "a took kind of intimidation." Baldwin also pointed out that the thing that "makes me maddest is that they go into the Pentagon with officers who have sween oaths of fidelity, loyalty and obedience and they threaten them with lie detector tests. This is incredible to approx with the kind of country which I was broughtest in the this has happened not only in this care but in the reviews cases. of August 17, 1962, did Agents in conducting interviews in this case have made no mention of lie detector tests or polygraph exeminations.

Raldwin commented that former President Dwight D. isanhower never "sent the FBI as such into the Pentagon" although he did become quite upset about leak cases. Baldwin was of the opinion that it was "peculiar to this Administration" and he thought that the explanation lies in the fact that 'deemedy' has some type of 'a Boston-Irich interiority compl ::." Haldwin also believed that 'Kennedy' was 'smubbed when he went to Hervard. " As a further reason for investigations into unauthorized disclosures of classified information, Baldwin thought that 'Bobby Kennedy' was close to the Bresid of and incluenced the President in instituting such investigations. commented that "these Kennedys" were 'big on hearing right on the phene and going and doing scruthing with the thinking something really through. Baldwin in reply pointed cut that that was 'the trouble' and it was 'the trouble with Guba." b7C
